

Amanda Lane <amandalane@addsomehotsauce.com>

---

How to support the places you hold dear

1 message

---

Sybil from Do Your Good <sybil@doyourgood.com>
To: Amanda Testing <amandalane@addsomehotsauce.com>

Mon, Dec 18, 2023 at 3:51 PM

Hi Amanda,

The holiday season means many are traveling to places that matter deeply to them, whether it's the town where they grew up, the city where loved ones live, or a special vacation destination.

Even if you're not traveling this year, you probably spent a moment thinking of the locations that are important to you.

For me, it's my home state of Oregon with its vast and beautiful forests, mountains, and valleys.

This month on the Do Your Good podcast, I wanted to highlight how to use philanthropy and nonprofit work to support the places that rejuvenate you, that welcome you, and that make you feel at home.

Each expert guest offers unique perspectives on supporting the environmental and community needs in the places we hold dear.

Discover the podcasts below.

---

Supporting the Places that Rejuvenate You

Dana Okano from Hawai'i Community Foundation discussed the needs of her home state Hawai'i and the importance of giving back to the land that rejuvenates you.

She dived into the ongoing challenge of supporting environmental and community needs. She shared her freshwater initiative and the ways you can support local organizations in a place that many people visit for rejuvenation.

Listen or read the transcript now.

---

Be a Considerate Thoughtful Visitor When Traveling

Eric Cole, Vice President of the Harold K.L. Castle Foundation, talked about how we can contribute to the well-being of the places we hold dear.

Eric shared valuable advice on giving back during your travels, including creative ways to support local causes, connect with local foundations, and make a positive impact while exploring your favorite destinations.

Listen or read the transcript now.

---

Productive Philanthropy in Rural Places

Erin Borla, Trustee and Executive Director of the Roundhouse Foundation, discussed her journey into philanthropy and its focus on rural Oregon.

Erin explained how the needs of rural communities differ from those of urban ones. She shared how she developed a strategic initiative that supports rural philanthropy, including community food systems, disaster response, and early childhood education.

Listen or read the transcript now.

---

For the nonprofit leaders reading this:

Are you struggling to raise money for your cause?

I can help you transform the way you pitch donors in a matter of weeks, so you can start raising more money for your nonprofit.

For budgets of $5

The Ticket to Successful Fundraising email series delivers impactful fundraising insights, tips, and worksheets to your inbox every week for 6 months. You'll learn:

- How to hone your pitch for greater impact
- How to focus on what matters the most
- How to create an effective budget
- How to structure a collaboration with other nonprofits to raise more money, not only for you but also for the cause you care about
- How to continue to tell your story over time, once you've received a donation from the donor

For just \$5/month. Click here to sign up.

For budgets of $50

The Be Real course goes deeper into the keys of pitching donors. You'll learn:

- How to stay relevant to donors year after year.
- The three types of donors and how to speak to them.
- How to discuss your mission from a place of abundance to secure more donors.
- The importance of being genuine and how not to treat a donor like a transaction.

Downloadable worksheets will help you develop your skills in pitching donors. Plus, you'll get the chance to ask me questions directly.

Get lifetime access instantly for \$50.

For budgets of $900

With The Pitch Perfection Mastery Package, you get everything you need to become an expert fundraiser, including:

- The Ticket to Successful Fundraising email series and Be Real course
- Easy-to-understand templates, checklists and resources with a new one added monthly
- An in-depth developmental edit of your pitch from an industry insider with 20 years of experience working with both nonprofits and donors!

- One-on-one support through email and Zoom calls where I'll answer all your questions and help refine your pitch.

Click here to learn more.

In the meantime, do good & be well,

Sybil Ackerman-Munson
President
Do Your Good

You are receiving because you have asked to download a resource. If you wish to no longer receive emails from me you can unsubscribe.

Sent to: amandalane@addsomehotsauce.com

Unsubscribe

Do Your Good, 20200 SE Walgren Road, Damascus, Oregon 97089, United States